

Comoving observers see velocities directed radially away from themselves

